Why Digital Works?

It's a program for training and career readiness focused on remote employment opportunities that are flexible and portable. This program fills student and community needs not met through traditional recruiting, hiring, and training channels.

Student numbers

- ★ 60% Women served
- ★ 57% Minorities served
- ★ 28% Veterans/military spouses
- ★ 83% Achieved certificates

Community numbers

- ★ 43,000 Completed basic digital literacy
- ★ 1,096 New jobs created
- ★ 580 Businesses started
- ★ 22 States with grads working remotely

Digital Works provides training for digital competency and career readiness for jobs that are in-demand NOW.

Digital Works' staff guide and support graduates throughout the placement process. They introduce them to our vetted employer network where they can apply and interview to secure work-at-home positions.

Digital Works graduates represent military spouses, veterans, unemployed, underemployed, caregivers, people with limited mobility, and new broadband adopters from rural and urban communities.

Funding a Digital Works program

Funding sources available for unemployed and underemployed adults are often limited by eligibility requirements that make it difficult for communities and their citizens to get the support they need. Digital Works typically relies on diverse funding sources making it possible to deliver services to a broad range of participants.

Who provides Digital Works?

Digital Works is provided by Connected Nation, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit with 20+ years of technology experience committed to advancing digital inclusion by expanding access, adoption, and use of high-speed internet to all people.
